I really hope it will be cold enough so I can trot out my Switzerland storm-door, and get Paul Norwood to train his ushers so they won't let a patron out to see a friend between the acts under the renalty of death. I tell you it will be the fashionable event. You must see to it. The Ber man deals fairly must see to it. The Brit man deals fairly with the ladies to liets and forgets nob dy. The luxuriance, ease, and elegance of the Boyd would induce attendance without half of the attractions that its patrons are half of the attractions that its patrons are made to feel, the one charm it possesses in an eminent degree being a cheerfulness, warmth and nameless spell that speaks of sunshine, melody and mirth that bids joy a welcome, and sets a seal on sadness. So far this reason Manager Boyd's selections of combinations have been first-class and so long as the public receives the best of everything his popularity is assaured.
